Comprehending _____ completely is impossible. The best we can do is imagine it, and know it's _____ that.

God has the immutable attribute of being _____.

God is _____.

The word "everlasting" in Hebrew literally means "the _____ point." (Psalm 90:2)

Understanding God's Eternal Nature:

- God has no _____.
- Time was _____ by God, and is dependent on Him for _____.
- Time does not limit God's _____ or his _____ about events in time.
- God has no _____; all events are "current."
- God has no _____; everything is "now."
- God sees all times equally _____.

Kalam Cosmological Argument

1. Whatever has a _____ to its existence, must have a cause
2. The universe _____ to exist
3. Therefore, the universe has _____ – a creator.

GET PRACTICAL:

1. God knows the future, and therefore, knows what _____ in my life.
2. Good perspective to have: My life is _____ compared to where I'll spend eternity.
3. Anytime I treat something in this life with _____ importance than preparation for my next life, I am _____ - my time.

- Read Isaiah 57:15 and Psalm 90:1-2. How do these verses show that it is God's nature to be eternal?
- What does it mean that God "inhabits eternity"?
- Aside from "learning lessons", have you ever made a decision that made you think, "If I had known how that was going to turn out, I would NOT have done that!" What was it?
- Why did you think it would turn out?
